MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIR

Your Council Members are hard at work. Our first Council meeting following the June 14, 2002 annual meeting and CLE program was held in Austin on September 14, 2002 (see enclosed meeting minutes for details of both the June 14th and September 14th meetings). A portion of the Council meeting was dedicated to brainstorming and goal setting. Following are a few of the ideas presented by your Council Members:

1. Increase awareness of our Section in the legal community.
2. Increase Section membership.
3. Partner with local women's bar organizations.
4. Continue our support of the Women's Advocacy Project.
5. Continue to increase the utility of our website to our members.
6. Promote our CLE programs to secure better attendance and appeal to a broad audience.
7. Identify projects that will help in the Section's evolution.

We now need to hear from you. What goals do you want our Section to achieve this year? How much time are you willing to commit to achieving these goals? Please contact your Council members with this information (our contact information is to the left of this note).

As Past Chair, Ralph Brock reminded us in 2000: There is strength in numbers, so we must increase our membership. There is strength in education, so we must produce outstanding CLE programs. There is strength in honoring our best, which we will do with our Sarah T. Hughes and Ma'at Justice Awards. There is strength in honoring our past, which we will do through our chronology project.

Our greatest strength, however, is membership involvement. This can be our best year yet, with your help.

Misty Ventura

AROUND THE STATE

EDITOR'S NOTE:

In this new column, we plan to feature local women's bar associations around the State of Texas. This is the first installment of this column, so if you don't see your local women's bar featured in this edition, look for it next time! We plan to feature them all. Articles are always welcome and may be sent to laddalisa@earthlink.net.

BEXAR COUNTY WOMEN'S BAR ASSOCIATION

by Nancy Farrer

The Bexar County Women's Bar Association ended 2001 celebrating the success of its nineteenth annual Bench Brunch at a festive Christmas luncheon where Santa Claus, aka Judge John Specia, gave away over $110,000 in Bench Brunch proceeds to sixteen deserving charities serving women and children in the San Antonio/ Bexar County area. Bench Brunch, BCWBA's yearly fundraiser honoring women judges in Texas, has become the premier event of the Bexar County legal community, attended by approximately 900 people this past fall. The 2002 Bench Brunch committee is already hard at work preparing for the Bench Brunch's upcoming twentieth anniversary!

Bench Brunch is not the only BCWBA project to impact the Bexar County community. As we look back on a year that saw the BCWBA, along with its charitable arm, the Bexar County Women's Bar Foundation, receive numerous local, state, and national awards for its innovative and caring programs, BCWBA is already on fast forward for this year's projects. Here are some highlights.

GALS Project

The BCWBA is off and running with its new GALS (Girls and Life Sports) mentoring program in conjunction with Harlendale School District and the San Antonio Sports Foundation. Trained BCWBA volunteers are working with at-risk middle school girls in a teaching program geared to introducing or re-emphasizing life skills such as self-esteem building, healthy decision-making, goal-setting, and many other topics. As a special treat for girls in this first session, they will be participating in some of the activities surrounding the Women's Final Four in college basketball, held here in March. A second volunteer training session is scheduled in February and BCWBA hopes to reach out to other area schools as the program develops.

Wills Clinic and Elder Law Handbook

On April 6, BCWBA takes its semi-annual Wills Clinic on the road, setting up at the Ella Austin Community Center to be closer to the clients it serves. The Wills Clinic provides free wills and powers of attorney for senior citizens who otherwise cannot afford them. The BCWBF also continues to publish the Elder Law Handbook containing essential information for seniors, including vital information regarding senior services in the local area. Last year, BCWBF published 5,000 copies of the handbook in English and another 2,500 copies in Spanish.

Law Day

At its regular April luncheon, the BCWBA will celebrate Law Day by inviting 55 freshman high school girls from the Fox Tech law magnet school to be its guests. Freshman girls tend to be at risk for dropping out of the program because they do not believe they can succeed. Speaker for the luncheon will be the Honorable Carmen Kelsey, talking about juvenile justice, but also how she became a lawyer and judge. Hopefully, listening to Judge Kelsey and speaking to legal professionals, including attorneys, legal assistants, and legal secretaries, will encourage these young ladies to continue pursuing their highest goals.

Battered Immigrant Women's Project

The BCWBA/BCWBF, together with St. Mary's University School of Law Center for Legal and Social Justice, have trained a group of volunteer lawyers to help battered immigrant women and children find safety by providing both immigration and family law assistance. The Battered Immigrant Women Committee also publishes and distributes personal safety brochures in English and Spanish, which are designed to guide battered women and children through the legal and social service system. Last year, with a grant from the American Bar Association, the Project created a CD-ROM, a 700-page manual, and an eight-hour instructional videotape to assist other bar associations in conducting similar seminars in other regions of Texas. A live seminar in Laredo is currently in the planning stage.

The Working Parents' Guide to Summer Survival

Not last and not least, BCWBF is publishing a second edition of its Working Parents' Guide to Summer Survival. The Guide contains information on daylong, weekend, and camp activities that children, aged 4 to 16 years, will find fun, entertaining, and stimulating. The Guide is provided free as a service to working parents struggling to successfully juggle work and family, especially in the summer. The BCWBF has already received requests for over 12,000 copies!

So is the Bexar County Women's Bar Association all work and no play? No way! Planning is underway for the annual overnight retreat at Guadalupe River Ranch in May. Before that, BCWBA will host a President's Party and Judicial Reception, a mixer for the judiciary, the legal community, and BCWBA mentees from the Women's Law Association at St. Mary's University School of Law. The BCWBA also plans to celebrate the baseball season with a family picnic and opening home game with the San Antonio Missions. 2002 promises to be another fun and busy year!

TRAVIS COUNTY WOMEN LAWYERS' ASSOCIATION

by Christy Drake-Adams

The Travis County Women Lawyers' Association held its Pathfinders Luncheon on January 15, 2002. The purpose of this annual event is to recognize some of the most notable women in the legal profession in the Travis County area. The women honored this year included Myra McDaniel, Jo-Christy Brown, and Bree Buchanan. The varied backgrounds of the honorees, public interest (Bree Buchanan), large well-established law firm (Myra McDaniel) and small private firm (Jo-Christy Brown) made for an interesting presentation. Each of the women described the aspects of their career that they found most and least rewarding and how they have balanced their professional and personal lives.

JUNE 14, 2002, IN DALLAS, TEXAS

Deborah L. Ingraham of Austin, Chair, convened the annual meeting of the Women and the Law Section, welcoming members and guests. She recognized Betsy Whitaker, of Dallas, President-Elect of the State Bar of Texas and Tony Alvarado, Executive Director of the State Bar of Texas. She announced that Ralph H. Brock, who had been nominated by the Section, received the Presidents' Award from the State Bar just prior to the Section's annual meeting and she announced that Suzanne Duvall, former president of the Section, had been appointed as a Section Representative to the State Bar Board of Directors.

Deborah L. Ingraham invited all attendees to enjoy refreshments provided by the Dallas Women Lawyers' Association and Akin, Gump, Strauss, Hauer & Feld, L.L.P.

Deborah L. Ingraham discussed several accomplishments made by the Section during the 2001-2002 State Bar year. She said she was proud to announce that the Section's web site was on line; it will be maintained at a cost to the Section of $20.00 a month. She complimented the work of the council members who had worked with the State Bar in organizing a continuing legal education program that was conducted by telephone. She also stated that the Section's newsletter had a color banner. She then thanked each officer and council member of the Section, giving each a bag of sachet.

Judy Ney, of Houston, Treasurer, said that as of June 14, 2002, the Section had $2,502.97 in its account. Suzanne Duvall moved to accept the treasurer's report. After a second by Jan Soifer, the motion carried.

Judy Ney reminded council members that they could request a maximum of $100.00 from the section as reimbursement for expenses they paid to attend this annual meeting.

Ronnie E.G. Harrison, of Houston, said that she, Judy Ney, and Leo Ney had been selling small miniature "dancing cows" to raise money for the Women's Advocacy Project, which is the Section's pro bono project. Ronnie said that she had approximately 100 cows to sell, at prices from $20 to $30.

Amy Wright of the Women's Advocacy Project expressed appreciation to the Section for its continued support of the Women's Advocacy Project, which began 20 years ago with a hotline for women and developed into an organization that addresses family and domestic violence issues.

Carolyn F. Moore said that the minutes of the March 11, 2002 meeting had been accepted by an e-mail vote of the officers and council members.

When Ms. Ingraham asked for other news from the Section members, D'Metria Benson and Ronnie E.G. Harrison reminded attendees that they are running for public office. Ms. Benson is running for judge and Ms. Harrison is running for the State Senate.

In accepting the award, Ms. Horton introduced several family members who accompanied her to the meeting and discussed her first encounter at the Texas Municipal League with a man who needed advice from an attorney. Ms. Soifer said that Justice

Hankinson had also worked very hard on a newly created organization, Texas Access to Justice, which is trying to make certain that people with low income have legal representation. Justice Hankinson graciously accepted the award, which was a small statute of the Egyptian Goddess Ma'at.

Misty Ventura introduced the guest speaker, Rani Garcia, a lawyer with Akin, Gump, Strauss, Hauer & Feld, L.L.P. Ms. Garcia spoke on the topic "Breastfeeding and the Working Woman, a Legal Perspective." The speech was approved for one hour of continuing legal education credit.

AWARDS

This year's State Bar Annual Meeting in Dallas in June provided the backdrop for recognizing the extraordinary achievements of two extraordinary Texas women lawyers. Susan M. Horton and Justice Deborah G. Hankinson were the recipients of the Section's top honors.

The Women and Law Section honored Susan M. Horton with the Sarah T. Hughes Award, recognizing her many efforts in public service during the past twenty years. Ms. Horton has served as General Counsel and Deputy Executive Director with the Texas Municipal League since 1983. She currently serves of counsel for Bickerstaff, Heath, Smiley, Pollan, Keever and McDaniel, LLP.

The Sarah T. Hughes award recognizes the accomplishments of women who have achieved success in their own careers while paving the way for other women attorneys. Each year, Sarah T. Hughes recipients have excelled in the areas of serving their communities, furthering their profession, and advancing opportunities for women lawyers.

Ms. Horton has likewise succeeded in these areas and excelled in public service. While working for the Texas Municipal League, Ms. Horton's duties included managing the Legal and Legislative Departments, overseeing delivery of legal services, and developing legislative agendas. She has also served as a speaker and author on municipal law issues.

Last summer, Ms. Horton was honored by the Texas City Attorney Association Board of Directors, which presented her with a Star Stream Steuben award. This honor recognized her years of contributing to law within her community.

The Women and Law Section also recognized Supreme Court Justice Deborah G. Hankinson by awarding her the Ma'at Justice Award. Justice Hankinson serves as the Supreme Court's liaison to the Board of Law Examiners, the Texas Equal Access to Justice Foundation, and the Supreme Court Task Force for Gender Fairness. Additionally, she is the Vice-Chair of the Texas Access to Justice Commission and is on the Board of Directors of the Texas Center for the Judiciary and the National Association of Women Judges. In past years, Justice Hankinson has been honored for her efforts in coordinating efforts to provide legal services to the poor as well as being "Texas Judge of the Year."

The Women and Law Section's Ma'at Justice Award is a unique award, honoring individual attorneys or associations who have contributed to the advancement of justice in Texas. The award's name comes from the Egyptian goddess of justice, who symbolizes truth, order, righteousness, and the emergence of order out of chaos. Due to Justice Hankinson's commitment to supporting women in the legal profession and the community, she was honored with this year's award.
